A SHANGHAI SHARE CASE.

Judge de Saumarez on Broker's Contract Notes.

Delivering judgment in the British Supreme Court at Shanghai last week in the case of the Teh Yuan Bank and Low Dahn against N. S. Levy, Judge Sir Haviland de Saumarez made some remarks on local business customs which are of interest to a wide circle.

His Lordship said:—This is an action which arises out of a certain transaction which took place somewhere in the neighbourhood of the famous June settlement which has so often been discussed in this court and which, also, raises the point in connection with the contract note used by brokers in this town and which has also been the subject of comment on pure occasions than one by judges of this court.

The facts in this case are unfortunately somewhat involved, that is to say, there are two stories which are absolutely inconsistent with each other and neither of which is in any way inherently improbable.

The plaintiff is a bank and a Chinese gentleman named Low Dahn, who carried on business in the town, but who still appears to have frequented the neighbourhood of the Stock Exchange with the idea of doing certain dealings in shares should the opportunity arise. The defendant is an outside broker. The plaintiff's story is that having twenty or thirty shares in Langhain to dispose of, Low Dahn was about the Stock Exchange—I think it was about the Stock Exchange, but his whereabouts do not matter—when the defendant came to him and said: "I want twenty shares," and he thereupon sold him twenty of these shares and he knew nobody else except Levy in the matter. The defendant on the other hand says that the plaintiff Low Dahn knew perfectly well that he, Levy, was dealing as a broker, and he further tells us some rather complicated story as to there being a transaction on the 7th day for ten shares and another transaction on July 11th for another ten shares and that on the completion of this transaction on July 11th both were lumped together and a contract note for a different amount, which did not actually represent the average value of the shares, was given by himself to Low Dahn and that the excess in the value of the shares was accounted for by the fact that Low Dahn wanted to get off or have an allowance made to him in respect of certain commission.

With reference to that part of the case all I wish to say is this: The defendant's story does not help me. He says that he writes them up the same night or perhaps one day afterwards. Three days elapse and there is no note whatever of the sale on the 11th when he says that this curious, complicated transaction was brought to an end. I think that is all I need say about the facts.

The contract note is in the usual form and is as follows: "Dear Sir,—We have this day sold for your account twenty shares in the Langhain Company Limited at the price of 1.350 per share, cum dividend," and signed for the concerned, "purchase contract," N. S. Levy. Yours faithfully, N. S. Levy, broker." This contract note on the face of it is a contract note made by a broker. I think that in an ordinary way, unless there was very strong evidence to show that the defendant had acted otherwise than as a broker, the contract note itself would be conclusive, but undoubtedly there is the practice in Shanghai which has come before this court too often for the court to ignore it that dealers in shares here act sometimes as jobbers and sometimes as brokers, and that the words "for the concerned" have often been used to cover the practice of jobbing. The question is therefore somewhat more complicated, because I have to look on the evidence to see whether the facts taken together with this known practice are such that I should be justified in coming to the conclusion that the defendant was in this case acting as a jobber or that he was making this contract precisely a contract between himself and the plaintiff, he acting as principal. I have stated my view of the evidence, namely, that there is nothing convincing on either side. The onus in fact of the contract appears to be on the plaintiff to prove that Levy was in fact acting in a way different from what he appears to have been acting on the face of the contract note which passed between them. As I say, they have failed in convincing me that that is the case, and therefore I must give judgment for the defendant, but I shall not allow him the costs, because the books that he produced before me and which ought to have given a clear account of this transaction are entirely unsatisfactory and therefore he must stand the loss to that extent. I may say, I think, that with these facts in this objectionable form, signed "for the concerned," when these contracts are before the court the court will always run into to be satisfied by the books of the person who issues such a contract note that he has taken good care to show the nature of the transaction. As I say in this case, the books do not help me at all and I think my sense of that by depriving the defendant of his costs.

But it will be but a temporary advance, we imagine: things will gradually readjust themselves and then the present disparity will be found to have naturally disappeared. But meanwhile the Girl of the Period has the best of it. "Enid," the witty lady contributor to the Referee, puts the case very neatly in a recent article. She says: "There are learned young women still, but they are different from those we know and fled from a decade ago. Their knowledge sits more gracefully upon them, and they add to their wisdom the art of being interesting. Take also young Englishwomen as a whole! What foreigner or home-dweller could call them stupid now or inferior to their brothers? They have grown, they have developed, they have progressed—not gradually, but fairly by leaps. Personally, I see no improvement of the present-day young men under twenty-five over the young men of the same age of ten years ago. There seems to be much of a sameness about them. I can shut my eyes and listen to their talk and note not the slightest difference between them and their now older brothers whom I knew of yore." Those brothers who were so insufferable at twenty-five are grown up to be real men of thirty-five and forty now, and these younger boys are talking about the same things in the same manner from the same old-time attitude of self-conceit and cockiness. I find no such similarity between the present girl of between twenty and twenty-five and the girl of the same age whom I knew ten years ago, while as for the present-day woman of thirty, she is an absolutely different creature from what she would have been at the same age ten years ago. In a word, our young women are growing, and, as I said before, not gradually, but leaping, springingly. Watch them, and you note that they grow while you are looking at them. Put your ear to the ground at their feet and you will actually hear them grow. There are certain fearful prophets who, watching this remarkable process, shake their heads and feel doubtful about the future of England, since there seems danger that these ambitious young women, with their wide-open eyes, their outstretched hands, and their proudly lifted chins, refuse to mate and bear sons and daughters to populate the Empire. Refuse to mate! Fear not, oh, ye of little faith and blinded eyes! Not one of all this brilliant company of women will ever refuse that, for woman was meant to mate, and mate she will, unless she is denied the opportunity. I grant you that she may refuse to marry far more often than she has dared to refuse heretofore, since she will demand to be matched as well as married, and she will wait for marriage till she finds her peer. Is such a situation, then, alarming? Yes; it is alarming, unless the young men of England wake up and rub their eyes and begin to read the writing on the wall. Here, let me help them to decipher that writing, which readeth somewhat thus: "Your sisters are marching past you, and it behooveth you to look alive!"

We expect the young men of England will wake up, their women-folk will make them in the long run, and then what a splendid race we may expect in the immediate future. With them we can safely leave the destinies of the old country, for they will be able to reconstruct from the ruins which the pessimists declare we are preparing for posterity a newer and a better polity which shall bring appreciably nearer the much-desired Golden Age.

THE GIRL OF THE PERIOD.

ONE of the things that strikes an old China hand on returning to the Old Country after the lapse of several years is the very great improvement to be noted in the physique and bearing of the rising generation of middle class school girls and young ladies generally. In many respects they are ahead of their brothers and boy cousins of similar years. This fact is even being borne in upon the minds of the stay-at-homes, we gather, if recent articles in the London papers can be taken as any guide, and naturally much satisfaction is expressed by the feminists that things should be so. The effect of two decades of High School training upon the girls of the middle classes of Society has indeed been very salutary, producing better developed bodies, more self-reliant minds. The open air life which most school girls lead during the hours set apart for physical exercise is very different to the restricted routine to which their mothers were subject, while in another direction the widening of the intellectual horizon has been equally productive of good results. But the Boy of the Period is very much where he was a quarter of a century ago, and the consequence is that stern moralists are beginning to lash out at his delinquency in more or less measured terms of contempt, opprobrium or satire as comes easiest to their respective pens. "When all that can be urged against the public school boy, and the young man into which he develops, is fairly weighed in the balance it must be owned that some of the criticism hurled at times is justified. The human boy has always been a more or less selfish individual, very opinionated, inclined to be patronising, and keen to maintain the old traditions and old customs of his class and caste. His sister or his girl cousin has not the centuries of tradition behind her that he has, and hence, being perfectly untrammelled, she has shot ahead in quite astonishing fashion. But it will be but a temporary advance, we imagine: things will gradually readjust themselves and then the present disparity will be found to have naturally disappeared. But meanwhile the Girl of the Period has the best of it. "Enid," the witty lady contributor to the Referee, puts the case very neatly in a recent article. PIRATES FIRE ON THE S.S. WEI HOI

When the S.S. Wei Hoi arrived at Canton on Monday it was reported that she had encountered pirates on the way from Wuchow but luckily escaped although the ship bore traces of numerous bullet holes in the hull. The vessel is a wooden one and plies between Canton and Wuchow and the affair took place near Kai Kong Shek about 6 p.m. on Sunday.

When the first shots were fired the Chinese captain did not stop and narrowly averted a collision with the junk on which the pirates were.
In Wuchow it is reported that the pirates are demanding $2,000 from the smaller steamers and $5,000 from the larger ones.

In the High Court of Vienna the question has just been raised for the first time whether a testament is valid if written with the typewriter. A Viennese actress, Friedlein Elide Gussner, petitioned to set aside the typewritten will of her grandfather, by which she was disinherited. It was duly signed by the testator and attested by three witnesses as prescribed in Austria, but the petitioner's lawyer argued that the statute says that the will must be written and says nothing about being printed or typed. After a long argument the court decided that the will was valid on the ground that the typewriter is as much an instrument of writing as the pen, though more complicated, and pointed out that it could not be expected that the Austrian civil code should expressly mention typewriters, as it was promulgated just a century before these machines were invented.

THE TIDOR TROUBLES.

A Significant Demand.

Our Malacca correspondent writes under yesterday's date as follows:—
An urgent message has come from Tidor requesting instant despatch of two medical men and 500 supplies, also all available quantities of war and troops.
It is believed the detachment leaving on the 24th will be supplemented.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Lieutenant Cornelius E. Carter has just retired from the Royal Navy at his own request. He was well known in late years on the China and East Indies Stations.

Yuan Shih-kai is said to have remarked after the bomb outrage on his life, that men in his position must expect such things. He did not intend it to deter him.

Archbishop Bonne, who came to Nagasaki when 25 in the service of the Catholic Mission, died at St. Luke's Hospital, Tokyo, aged 67. He only took over his see in July last year. Death was due to pleurisy.

The death is reported of Mr J. I. Andinel, a very old resident of Newchwang, who came to China in 1870. At different times he was Consul or Vice-consul for Germany, Japan, U. S. America, Norway, Sweden and the Netherlands.

The interesting announcement is made that in memory of his daughter, the late Mrs. Maud Ashley, Sir Ernest Cassel is giving £50,000 to hospitals and other kindred institutions. Of this, £11,500 goes to the King Edward Hospital Fund.

In a recent interview President Sun Yat-sen declined to discuss the general situation, saying that it was by no means settled, and that until he received more definite news from Peking he was not in a position to give an opinion. He said that the Republic had been given to China to protect this support from a threatened attack by the Imperialists. It was, he said, already Republican territory and therefore the entrance of the men of war or of troops was not a violation of the armistice.

In commenting on the telegram announcing the death of the Earl of Carlisle yesterday we inadvertently described him as the 9th holder of the title. The 9th Earl died in April of last year, when he was succeeded by Viscount Morpeth, who sat as M. P. for South Birmingham from 1904. It is no doubt the latter peer who is now dead, as he has been in indifferent health for some time past. If so, he is succeeded by his only son, George, Viscount Morpeth, who sat as M. P. for South Birmingham from 1904. The death will not occur until January 18th. Thus the death will not occur until January 18th. Thus the death will not occur until January 18th.

The death took place on the 7th December last, at Richmond, Surrey, of Fleet-Paymaster John Lyne, B.N. (retired) at the age of 81 years. He entered the service in November, 1846, was promoted assistant paymaster in August, 1851, paymaster in March, 1857, and retiring in August, 1873, became fleet-paymaster in February, 1886. He served in the China War 1857-59, and received the thanks of the Governor of Hongkong for valuable services rendered at the destruction by fire of the British Consulate at Canton, December, 1856, in saving the records and valuable archives of the Consulate, and also the acknowledgments of the Commander-in-Chief, Sir Michael Seymour, and the Admiralty.

CONDITION OF CANTON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CANTON, Jan. 21.

For more than a week now there has not been the least suggestion of any trouble and there is no prospect of anything cropping up at present, but of course no one can speak with certainty at this time of the year. In the course of a long journey through the city yesterday, the quiet, peaceful state of the streets was very noticeable and only one band of soldiers was encountered and they were escorting a company of new arrivals to headquarters. At the open spaces where troops are usually drilled, the work was going on famously. Discipline and drill are much improved lately and the old state of affairs has passed away. At the Government Yamen were drawn up a body of well-dressed, well-armed guards who saluted an officer in quite approved style and at the Government offices were messengers who spoke English perfectly and treated all comers with courtesy. Also there appeared just at present to be a great deal of trade going on by the river and idem junks are coming in, in large numbers. A rumour is about that the government is proposing to knock down the big wall which surrounds the city and replace it by a wide road, realising that the days of walled cities are past.

This morning was very foggy on the river and of course it was just the time when pirates had a fine chance to ply their business. When the S.S. Kaitum was going up, those in the board heard many shots fired and the pirates were soon making an attack on a laden junk. An attack on a village in H. was unsuccessful, the soldiers in the vicinity again proving their worth.

On Shanghai the state of things is much the same as before. The place is still under siege conditions and the French have commenced to fortify their part of the island. The Baluchistan regiment which has been camping out in an open space have found the weather conditions very trying and are being housed in a large godown opposite the Canton Club, for the present.

CHOLERA PREVENTED.

HAMBERGERS' Cough Remedy is not only a certain cure for cholera, but it will prevent the attack when freely given as soon as the first symptoms appear. In many thousands of homes it is kept constantly at hand ready for instant use as soon as the enemy cough is heard. There is no danger in giving it to young children, as it contains no opium or other injurious substance. For sale by all Chemists and Druggists.

A MORTGAGE DISPUTE.

Mother Sues Son.

In the Supreme Court, before the Chief Justice (Sir Francis Pigott) this morning, an action was brought by Lo Leung Shi, widow, against Lo Lin Yau, her son, described as a gentleman, for the recovery of $38,738.10, money alleged to have been received by the defendant for the use of the plaintiff. The sum claimed was made up as follows:—One-fifth of $142,000, the principal money received by the defendant from Messrs F. Sassoon, A. W. Sassoon, E. Nissim, M. Nissim and E. Shellin on or about February 8th, 1910, on security of a mortgage on Inland Lot No. 7, of which lot the plaintiff owns one-fifth and one-fifth of $51,440.53, the "net" sum received by the defendant between August 1st, 1907, and the end of the first moon of the present Chinese year for the rent of Nos. 62a, 64, 66 and 68, Queen's Road, Central and Nos. 3 and 5, Stanley Street, standing upon the said Inland Lot No. 7. It was set out that defendant had not paid these sums or any part thereof.

Mr M. W. Slade, K.C., and Mr Eldon Potter (instructed by Mr R. F. C. Master) were for the plaintiff, and Mr H. E. Pollock, K.C., (instructed by Mr D. V. Stevenson) appeared for defendant.

Mr Slade in opening, said the case was somewhat peculiar because all the material facts necessary for the plaintiff to prove were admitted, and so far as he (Mr Slade) could see, no defence had been shown at all in the statement of defence. However, it was possible that his learned friend might be able to twist a statement which to an ordinary person appeared to be ineffective, into something which would operate by way of defence.

Proceeding, counsel said plaintiff was the widow of Lo Chuk Chi, who died in December, 1907. It appeared that in the year 1904 Lo Chuk Chi bought a piece of property in this Colony and took the assignment in the names of five of his sons. That assignment was a straightforward document with no peculiarities about it and was an admitted document; the amount paid was $230,000. That property remained in the possession of the five sons until March, 1905, when one of the sons, in consideration of a sum of $40,000, conveyed his fifth share to the plaintiff, his mother. From that time up to the present the property had been held by the four sons of the plaintiff as tenants in common in equal shares. The next step was a power of attorney given by the plaintiff to the eldest son of Lo Chuk Chi, giving him power to collect rents, etc., including a power of mortgage. That was given in August, 1907. Under that power of attorney this son (the defendant) mortgaged the property first of all for $142,000, and after that mortgage was paid off, a new mortgage was executed for $142,000. It was admitted that no portion of the money was paid to the plaintiff, who was owner of a fifth share. It was admitted also that no portion of the rents since the defendant had the power of attorney had been paid over to the plaintiff, and it was alleged by the defence that they had all been used by the defendant in the service of the mortgage. Plaintiff claimed that she was entitled to one-fifth of the proceeds and is put in the position of a mortgagee as from the time when one-fifth of the proceeds were paid over to her. She was entitled to one-fifth to be paid now and from this time onwards she would, of course, pay her share of the interest. Not having had use of the money from the time the mortgage was executed up to the present time, she was under no obligation to pay interest in the intervening time.

So what she was asking for were the net rents, which were admitted at $51,000, and the fifth share of the cash-paying mortgage, which came to $38,738.10. There was no dispute in this case over figures; it was a question of right. Counsel then put in various documents, and contended there was no defence.

Mr Pollock submitted that if he could not make out his case, unless further evidence was called, he took it that he was entitled to judgment.

His Lordship—Take it the position is as in all ordinary cases of mortgage, or any cases depending on documents—the plaintiff puts in the documents and says "There is my prima facie case," and it is for the defendant to answer it.

Mr Pollock—I submit my friend has to carry the case further than that. Supposing I can satisfy your Lordship that my learned friend has not proved his case, without opening any facts apart from those before your Lordship, then I take it I am entitled there and then to judgment?

His Lordship—Oh yes, clearly.
Mr Pollock, proceeding, said his friend had contended that so far as the mortgage was concerned under the power of attorney they had a good title. Therefore the position was that it was admitted that in fact there had been good mortgages of this property. Therefore, owing to some document which the plaintiff and the three brothers of the defendant had signed, a child circumstance had been created on the property, first for $142,000 and after that had been paid off, for $142,000. Therefore it would have been his place for the plaintiff to take any proceedings to set aside either of these mortgages. The plaintiff in order to recover from the defendant would have to show that the defendant was not entitled to have these amounts advanced on mortgage, received those amounts in his own account and his own benefit. That would have to be proved. That was a matter to be tried and which the burden would rest upon the plaintiff. In this connection counsel drew attention to the statement of defence which he said, clearly set out that these five sons, in whose names the property originally stood, were merely nominees of Lo Chuk Chi, their father. It was clear that the defendant had raised the issue as to the plaintiff's title to the property. The assignment of the property from one of the sons to the plaintiff was alleged to be an assignment for value, but that position was challenged by the defence, and he submitted that the plaintiff could not possibly say and say, "I have my title to the property" because if the consideration in a deed were challenged, it had to be proved.

After the fifth assignment, again at the other side had not attempted to prove that the defendant raised the money on mortgage for his own benefit, and contending that in the absence of proof of that the plaintiff could not succeed. Whether the father had any title remaining, him was in some immaterial, because the title of the mortgages did not depend on the title being still in the father at all. It really came back to the question of the operation of the mortgage money.

Mr Slade submitted that Mr Pollock had either to rely on a superior title or he had not. But he had persistently refused to state whether he alleged that the father had a superior title or not. The position was divided fifth of the property, she had produced her documents and traced the course of the assignment to her. She had appointed the defendant her agent for the management of the property and he was bound in law to account to her for everything he had received or paid in respect of the property.

Further argument ensued, in which Mr Slade asked his Lordship if he would rule that the defendants were entitled to set up trusteeship and not plead it. If so, he (Mr Slade) would be much obliged. Mr Pollock said he was entitled to set up certain facts, which may or may not amount to trusteeship.
Mr Slade—Will Mr Pollock say he does not allege trusteeship?
Mr Pollock—I alleged that plaintiff retained control over the property.
Mr Slade—There you are, he won't allege it one way or the other.
His Lordship—The only question now is what the story is and to see on the facts alleged whether there is a trusteeship.
Mr Slade—He has pleaded that the father retained a beneficial interest.
His Lordship—Whether that amounts in law to a trusteeship can be argued later. You want to force trusteeship on him.
Mr Slade—I do not. I want to know whether he alleges one thing or the other.
His Lordship—I don't think that is necessary.
Mr Slade asked his Lordship to note that he (Mr Slade) considered that he was entitled to know whether trusteeship was alleged in this case, because if he should want to plead further matters, he would be obliged to know whether he was entitled to do so or not.
Evidence was then called, and the case was proceeding when we went to press.

His Lordship—I don't think that is necessary.

Mr Slade asked his Lordship to note that he (Mr Slade) considered that he was entitled to know whether trusteeship was alleged in this case, because if he should want to plead further matters, he would be obliged to know whether he was entitled to do so or not.
Evidence was then called, and the case was proceeding when we went to press.

SEAMEN CHARGED WITH DISOBEDIENCE.

Boat Commander O. W. Beckwith, R.N., at the Marine Court this morning, Mr O. H. Cross, master of the s.s. Bosnia charged 24 seamen of the same ship with continuous and wilful disobedience of the lawful commands of the master between 27th September 1911 and January 21, 1912.

Complainant gave evidence that while at San Pedro, California, on September 27, he gave an order to move the ship along the line of docks. This order defendants refused to obey. Later they did obey the order. On October 9, while at San Francisco, defendants refused to work and the following day they asked complainant to give them liberty. On October 24 one defendant refused duty unless he received $5 and he endeavored to get the other men to refuse duty also. Complainant gave him the money. This defendant had been very troublesome and had tried to incite the others. Complainant gave other instances of disobedience. On one occasion they had threatened the Chief Officer.

His Worship sentenced the three ring-leaders to two months' imprisonment each, and the remainder to 30 days' imprisonment each.

FRANCE AND ITALY.

A GRAVE SITUATION.

TALK OF NAVAL DEMONSTRATION.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

LONDON, Jan. 22. The Daily Chronicle correspondent in Paris states that France intends making a naval demonstration on the Italian coast in the event of the Italian reply regarding the captured Turks being unsatisfactory, and that orders have been sent to Toulon to hold a squadron in readiness.

Whether this is true or not, the situation seems grave, and is complicated by the mystery of the telegram in cipher which was said to have been sent to the Consul at Cagliari, telling him to surrender the Turks. While the French Government asserts that the telegram was not sent, the French papers hint that the telegram was tampered with, and demand an inquiry. They talk of the famous Enns despatch which preceded the Franco-German War. The Italians maintain that their action was justified, and declare that the prisoners carried no surgical appliances and were not doctors. They cite England's action in the Transvaal War and the seizure of the Bunderstath and General Hertog.

"A MISUNDERSTANDING."

LONDON, Jan. 23. While the French papers to-day continue to insist on the liberation of the Manoubia passengers as national honour is involved, they assure Italy that France will thereafter loyally investigate their true identity. The papers express their conviction that the Franco-Italian friendship is strong enough to ensure a prompt settlement of what is simply a misunderstanding.

AN EXAGGERATION.

LONDON, Jan. 23. There is not a word confirming the statement of the Daily Chronicle. On the contrary, it is learned that Italy proposes that the question of the seizures be submitted for arbitration to the Hague.

LONDON, Jan. 22. A great stir has been caused in New York by the announcement that the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall are to stay there a few days.

Mr. Whitelaw Reid, American Ambassador to London, will meet them in private, but the papers are full of conjectures as to who have been asked to meet their Royal Highnesses, and there is tremendous anxiety among many Society people lest they should be omitted.

ROYAL PARTY ARRIVES.

LONDON, Jan. 23.

Reuter's New York correspondent states that their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall, together with Princess Patricia, have arrived. They were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, while the crowds assembled to catch a glimpse of the Royal visitors were controlled by police guards.

The Duke and Duchess and Princess Patricia drove away in separate motor cars to avoid the reporters.

Fifty invitations have been sent out for an official dinner to be held to-night.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

LONDON, Jan. 22. Reuter's Constantinople correspondent reports that a telegram has been received from Jaffa to the effect that an Italian gunboat bombarded Khanyunna, in Syria, close to the Egyptian frontier.

LONDON, Jan. 23.

Reuter's correspondent at Rome states that the Italians on the 21st inst. recaptured Garguesh and found no traces of the enemy within a radius of five miles. This is regarded as confirming the seriousness of their losses. The enemy admit that over 150 were killed alone.

SOUTH CHINA RIFLE ASSOCIATION.

The presidency of this Association has been taken over for the year by Colonel Rowlandson, Commanding the 15th Baluchistan Infantry, while Lieut. H. E. O. Carter, 1st K.O.Y.L.I., has taken over the duties of Honorary Secretary. On Saturday, the 26th, Colonel Rowlandson gave a luncheon party to the representatives of all concerned in the meeting.

Among those present were: Major Ralph, Capt. Snapp, Lt. Douville, Capt. Northcote, Lt. Thicknesse, Capt. Fitzgerald, Lt. Aston, Capt. Woodhouse, Mrs. Bernard, and Mr. G. E. Stewart, representing the various branches of the Navy, Army, Volunteers, Police, private rifle clubs and firms.

Col. Rowlandson, at the conclusion of his speech, explained that the year's object was to make the meeting this year a very much larger one. He wished to increase and encourage the interest from all quarters considerably by increasing the number of prizes in all competitions. It was especially hoped to get a larger entry from the Volunteers and Civilian Rifle Clubs. It is also suggested that possibly with the inclusion of team competitions between private firms, the latter would be encouraged to start private Rifle Clubs of their own so as to include especially those who had not the time to join the Volunteers.

The meeting had been opened by general principles only, and to form a representative Committee. The chief work of organizing the meeting must naturally fall to the lot of one or two members of the Navy and Army, but with a really representative committee, arrangements and competitions might be made to suit all classes of competitors.

The following kindly consented to act on the executive committee:—Lt. Ritchie, R.N., H.M.S. S. Ninotaur; Capt. Snapp, R.M.L.I., H.M.S. Tamar.

For the Army:—Capt. Fitzgerald, 126th Baluchistan Infantry; Lt. Thicknesse, R.G.A.; Lt. Carter, 1st K.O.Y.L.I.

For the Volunteers:—Capt. Northcote, R.N.V.R.; Mr. Woodhouse.

For the Police:—Mr. Woodhouse.

For private Rifle Clubs:—Mr. G. E. Stewart.

For Firms:—Mr. D. Bernard.

The working committee will consist of:—Lt. Ritchie, R.N., Capt. Snapp, Capt. Fitzgerald, and Lt. Carter.

The following main principles were agreed to, but details were left to the working and executive committees:—

(1) To ask Navy, Army, and Private Firms to provide prizes.

(2) To hold the meeting simultaneously at King's Park and Stonecutters ridge ranges.

(3) That in order to guarantee the working expenses of the meeting a pro rata annual subscription should be asked for from the Navy, Army, Volunteers, Private Rifle Clubs and individual members.

(4) That the number of entrance fees should entirely regulate the number and amount of prize money, which should for preference consist of numerous small prizes rather than a few large ones.

(5) That the meeting should start on Sunday, March 10th, and finish if possible on Saturday, March 16th.

That the name of the association be changed from "China United Services Rifle Association" to "South China Rifle Association."

(7) That there should be Ladies Competitions and also 3 Revolver competitions to suit various weapons.

(8) That teams sent in by Firms should be confined to European and American.

It is hoped that any Firms or Individuals or private Rifle Clubs, needing any information on this subject will communicate with the Hon. Sec. Lt. H. F. O. Carter, K.O.Y.L.I., Murray Barracks, Hongkong.

CORRESPONDENCE.

UNIVERSITY BAZAAR.

(To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL.")

—A Bazaar and Fete in aid of the University Funds has been projected by Chinese gentlemen in the Colony to take place during the week beginning on 4th March, 1912, under the patronage of H. E. O. Carter and Lady Carter. The bazaar is himself President of the General Committee. A Sub-committee consisting of the following gentlemen, Messrs. Chan Kai Ming, Wong Kam Fuk, Ma Ting Fui, Wing Tui Chai, Chan Lok Chuen, Leung H. K. Lau, Ho Ngok Lau, Cheong Suet Nam, and Lau San Tung has been appointed to approach both Chinese and Foreign Firms, and to solicit their cooperation by sending to the Bazaar gifts of goods and articles. All gifts made by firms or individuals will be publicly acknowledged by the General Committee. Messrs. Chan Kai Ming and Chan Lok Chuen have kindly consented to put their offices Nos. 225 and 227 De Vaux Road Central and No. 122 Wing Lok Street at the disposal of the Sub-committee to receive all communications in respect of voluntary gifts and accept such gifts on any afternoon up to the 14th February, 1912.—Yours truly,

S. V. TSO.

Honorary Secretary, University Bazaar Committee.

SPORTING.

Rugby Football.

The following team has been selected to represent the Hongkong Club in a friendly match against the Army on Wednesday next (24th inst.) at 5.15 p.m.—Full back, T. E. S. Robinson; Three-quarter backs, E. J. Gill, G. Bullock, G. Blake and F. Sutherland; Half backs, Jasper, Clarke and A. P. Dushwood; forwards, A. Temperley, A. Murdoch, C. O. Stark, F. M. Winton, A. F. Dean, L. M. Whyte, W. Ross and R. M. Austin.

Football.

Teams from the two premier honours of the Colony met last evening, and after a strenuous game the sides had to retire without victory going to either, the result being a goalless draw. It could not be said that first class "football" was played, of the sides were evenly matched and whatever was lacking in science was more than made up for in energy. Talbot's forward were superior to their opponents, but the latter had a round defence and did not keep the other from scoring.

For Talbot, Bickel, Fisher and Melvin did especially good work, whilst for Ewo the brothers Raiton and Moon (half-back) and Campbell (goal) all performed their side's humble duties. Ewo played very well several times in the first half, but their forwards were too slow on the ball. The high wind which prevailed made good football difficult.

This is the third season in which the Talbot have been defeated.

JUSTICE FOR MANCHUS.

Sun Yat Sen, President of the new Republic, has just issued a proclamation dealing with current events. He deals particularly with the attitude of the new Government towards the Manchus rulers and officials, and the measure of justice that should be meted out to them. First of all he denounces anything like stern justice and indiscriminate punishment. It is pointed out that after all they were servants under the old system and therefore more or less expected to carry out their duties under the regime that afforded them protection. Then, further, it is said, and probably said truly, that at the present juncture there are not too many men of ability in the empire, that the Government can afford to dispense with men who are able and willing to serve the country under the new regime. This further has to be stated, that were seeking after revenge in any means to be discontinued, for by so doing the new Government will not gain anything; but on the contrary will in the long run lose much.

On the other hand if there are those discovered who obviously are traitors to the Republic, they are to be arrested and then carefully examined. Their punishment must in all cases be awarded with care, and every effort must be made to see that the measure of punishment is the measure of their treason. It is well that the President has taken this line. It is quite certain that an act of leniency of this kind will bring more good than evil in its train, and will probably lead to many seeking to serve loyally to the Republic, rather than stand aloof and wait for an opportunity for raising a revolt. It is hardly to be expected that the great movement now in progress in China, will be carried to its conclusion, and that stable Government will be founded without some revolts more or less formidable in different parts of the country. Even after the revolution in Portugal there was an attempt at a counter revolution, and such results must be expected in an empire so vast and so ill-informed as China undoubtedly is.

On the other hand this edict of President Sun has given the editors of native papers a whip with which to lash the local Government. It is known that recently one of the native papers in Canton made some remarks about the "People's Army" which were apparently distasteful to the Canton Government, and the editor of the paper in which they were printed, was dealt with somewhat severely. At least he thought that such was the treatment he received. The papers therefore point out that if it is the intention of the leaders of the Republic to deal leniently with arch offenders who would gladly if they could overthrow the present order of things, then it is illogical and suicidal to treat severely those who are well-wishers of the Government because they are bold enough to point out mistakes, not with a view to embarrass the Government, but in the hope that the advice may be taken and abuses corrected. It must be admitted that this reasoning is sound, and the rulers of Canton will do well to give as much freedom as possible to the native papers and try to win them to their side by frankness and freedom rather than by trying to suppress reasonable criticism, whose object after all is the correction of errors and the strengthening of the things that remain.
